Skills and Experience in Financial Management:

My background uniquely positions me to understand and improve the county's finances. With a proven track record in public service, I have honed the skills necessary to navigate complex budgetary challenges. I am committed to implementing sound fiscal policies that prioritize transparency, efficiency, and accountability.

Restoring Public Faith in Governance:

To restore public faith in the Board of Supervisors, I propose a comprehensive approach. This involves increasing transparency through regular town hall meetings, open forums, and accessible communication channels. By fostering an environment of openness and inclusivity, we can rebuild the trust that is essential for effective governance.

Improving Morale and Reducing Turnover:

Morale and turnover among County staff are crucial issues that need addressing. I plan to institute employee recognition programs, professional development opportunities, and fair compensation reviews. By creating a positive and supportive work environment, we can enhance morale and reduce turnover. I will also actively engage with county employees to understand their concerns and involve them in decision-making processes.

Addressing Homelessness and Promoting Stable Housing:

The main drivers of homelessness in our county include poverty, lack of affordable housing, veteran issues and mental illness. To combat this issue, I propose a multi-faceted approach. This includes increasing funding for affordable housing initiatives, collaborating with community organizations to provide support services, and working to eliminate barriers to mental health services. Additionally, I will advocate for policies that prevent homelessness through early intervention and support systems.

Protecting the Environment and Addressing Climate Change:

Climate change poses a significant threat to our county, including droughts and wildfires. To mitigate these challenges, I will prioritize investments in renewable energy sources, water conservation programs, and sustainable land management practices. Collaborating with local experts and organizations, I aim to develop a comprehensive climate action plan that addresses both immediate and long-term environmental concerns. By promoting sustainable practices and community engagement, we can protect our environment for future generations.

Hello, friends! I'm Trevor Mockel, and I'm thrilled to bring a lifetime of dedication to public service and democratic principles to the forefront of our community. Raised in Mendocino County since the age of two, I've witnessed the strength and resilience of our community firsthand.

For my entire adult life, I've been committed to serving the public, working tirelessly to address the issues that matter most to us. From advocating for better education to championing environmental sustainability, my journey has been rooted in the values that make Mendocino County unique.

I firmly believe that our best years are not behind us but lie ahead, waiting to be shaped by collaborative efforts and shared visions. Together, we can build a future that reflects the spirit and diversity of our community. Let's work towards a brighter, more inclusive tomorrow, where every voice is heard, and every individual plays a role in shaping our shared destiny. Join me in this journey, and let's create a legacy of progress and prosperity for Mendocino County!

I unequivocally support a woman's right to self determination
Yes I support public funding of abortion

Yes, our children are our future and we must do all we can to give them the best headstart possible.

The concept of comparable worth builds upon the principle of equal pay for equal work, advocating for fair compensation across different jobs with similar skill sets, responsibilities, and working conditions, irrespective of gender or demographic characteristics. It aims to rectify historical undervaluation of professions traditionally held by women, promoting a more equitable and inclusive workplace. However, implementing comparable worth poses challenges, requiring a nuanced approach to consider the intrinsic value of various roles and strike a balance in compensation structures. In essence, comparable worth is a crucial step towards addressing systemic biases and closing the gender pay gap, fostering a fairer and more just workforce.

I bring a wealth of experience and expertise to the table, having dedicated almost a decade to democratic politics. My extensive background in this field reflects a deep understanding of the intricacies of the political landscape and a commitment to democratic principles. Furthermore, my role as a public information officer for multiple public agencies demonstrates a versatile skill set, showcasing the ability to effectively communicate complex information to diverse audiences. This combination of political acumen and public service experience positions myself as a valuable asset, well-equipped to navigate the intersection of politics and public administration with finesse and insight.

Having actively contributed to numerous political campaigns across California, I have honed my skills and gained a comprehensive understanding of the diverse political landscape in the state. Through these experiences, I've forged meaningful connections within the political apparatus, fostering relationships that extend across party lines and geographic boundaries. My involvement in various campaigns has not only deepened my knowledge of California's unique political challenges but has also equipped me with a broad network of professionals and decision-makers. These connections serve as a testament to my commitment to collaborative and informed political engagement, ensuring a nuanced and strategic approach to navigating the intricacies of California's dynamic political environment.
